

Tillisch, Deanna

Dtillisch@upaf.org
414-708-1146

- Public Speaking
- Board Service
- Media Interviews

Deanna Tillisch is a community/public relations and marketing professional with more than 25 years of experience that crosses corporate, agency and nonprofit sectors. Tillisch currently is president and CEO of the United Performing Arts Fund, the largest nonprofit of its type in the U.S. She previously spent two decades at Northwestern Mutual as division head in three departments: corporate affairs, marketing and communications. Tillisch's community involvement includes serving as board president of Life Navigators, board director of Milwaukee Institute of Art & Design and advisory member of the Medical College of Wisconsin's Women in Science program. She holds an MBA from Marquette and a BA from UW-Madison.

Expertise: Economic Development, Education, Leadership, Social Issues & Public Policy